How to avoid inconvenient software update reboots in Windows 10?

Windows 10 is, in many ways, a truly internet-based operating system. Mostly, this is a bonus but there are times when it isn't – and Microsoft's attitude towards operating system updates is one such time. The most annoying part of automatic updates is the restarting, which can seemingly come at random (and inconvenient times). To counteract this:

1. Click on the Start Menu, select Settings.
2. Select Update and Security.
3. Click on Advanced Options, then toggle Notify to Schedule Restart.
